

TSC launch new website www.tscswabs.co.uk

Technical Service Consultants (TSC) are pleased to be announcing the launch of its new website – www.tscswabs.co.uk, with improved navigation, functionality and design, customers will find product pages have a cleaner look and technical information is easily downloaded.

TSC has been manufacturing high quality products in the UK for use in laboratories across the world. We offer innovative and cost effective products for sample collection, transport, identification and storage, providing the right result every time.

The homepage is functional, clean looking and simple to use, so customers can locate products quickly using a choice of product categories, image shortcuts and drop down lists for product range, product applications or industry use.

Product pages now include descriptions, MSDS, product specifications and products can now be added to the customers shopping cart, offering the opportunity to request further details or place orders.

Existing customers can quickly access the online certification section where sterility and quality assurance data can be downloaded for each product.

Easy access to accreditation certificates, product literature and user instructions is available in the Download section and TSC's Latest News provides customers with relevant product and end user information and updates.

For further details please visit www.tscswabs.co.uk